LOT 6 - 1831 Capped Bust Half Dollar

Description

The 1831 Capped Bust Half Dollar, with a mintage of just 1,000,000 coins, is a notable example within the series, ranking as a semi-key date that is sought after by collectors for its historical significance and relative rarity. Designed by John Reich, this coin features the iconic Capped Bust obverse and a majestic eagle reverse, reflecting the artistry of early 19th-century American coinage. This About Uncirculated specimen exhibits strong luster and sharp details, indicative of its high-quality strike, with minimal signs of wear that enhance its eye appeal and desirability among advanced collectors. As a product of the Philadelphia Mint, this coin represents a period of economic growth and expansion in the United States, coinciding with the nation's increasing reliance on silver for currency. The Capped Bust series is particularly significant for its role in the evolution of American coin design, making this piece a valuable addition for those completing a type set or focusing on early U.S. silver coins. With a limited number of high-grade examples available, this coin stands out in the market, appealing to both collectors and investors who appreciate its historical context and technical quality.
